02 - Responsibility Challenge

Submitted by Keyana Winston

Submitted by Jennifer Russo

In our household responsibilities are more than chores. Responsibility is a gift and privilege that comes with maturity. Often as a child gets older, they are presented with more and more responsibilities. With responsibility comes more freedom. In our home not only are household chores such as dishes or taking out the trash important but being able to wake yourself up on time for school, prioritizing handling business FIRST (such as schoolwork), and accepting consequences for what we say or do are just as important. I've taught my daughter being responsible means being aware of the consequences and repercussions of your actions and words. There are several ways I've taught and expect Gianna to be responsible but these are just a few on the list.

In the long run, we shape our lives, we shape ourselves. The process never ends until we die. And the choices we make are ultimately our responsibility.

—Eleanor Roosevelt

How did we show responsibility this month?

Attending classes

Turning in completed assignments

Taking accountability of school work when absent

Doing what is asked of us at all times

Charging our iPads overnight

Showing our presence on camera

Not yielding to other distractions while at home
